Fresh Solutions For Your Casino Locations

WHOLESOME

Show you care about the health of your customers and staff by offering a variety of great-tasting, healthier menu items, including the SUBWAY FRESH FIT™ menu, which features items that are trans-fat free, and low in saturated fat and cholesterol. Sandwiches and salads with fewer than six grams of fat, made with fresh vegetables, are available at SUBWAY® restaurants. Customers can have their sandwiches made-to-order. With strong brand recognition, flexible floor plans, fresh, healthier food choices, SUBWAY® restaurants are popular. A breakfast program with branded coffee is also available.

There are 3 SUBWAY® franchise options available for your casino:

- 1. Earn rental income by leasing space to an experienced SUBWAY® franchisee who will invest to build, equip, staff, and operate the restaurant.
- 2. The casino can become a SUBWAY® franchisee to own and operate.
- 3. If the casino has a food service contractor for managing retail operations, it may already be a SUBWAY® franchisee or it may become one. The contractor can also operate, manage, or sub-contract space to a SUBWAY® franchisee.

SUBWAY® is a Registered Trademark of Subway IP Inc. ©2016 Subway IP Inc.

 The SUBWAY FRESH FIT™ menu is available in the US only. *SUBWAY® is the #1 restaurant chain in total restaurant count with more locations than anyone else in the Quick Service Restaurant industry.

SUBWAY® RESTAURANTS: A GREAT ADDITION TO YOUR CASINO

FAST FACTS

It was 1965, and Dr. Peter Buck and 17 year old Fred Deluca decided to open their first sub shop. They set their goal for opening 32 in 10 years. Today, the SUBWAY® chain is the number one franchise with more locations in the world than any other quick serve restaurant. The company has set the goal of 100,000 restaurants by 2030.

GREAT FOOD

SUBWAY® "Sandwich Artists" create customers' sandwiches on a varied selection of daily baked gourmet breads. With the option of many ingredients, the sandwiches are customized with an array of meats, cheeses, vegetables, and lastly topped off with unique select sauces. In addition, many food flavors are brought out by toasting the sandwiches to perfection, just the way a customer wants.

The SUBWAY® franchise offers your customers many great options to eat a fresh meal, fast.

Think about your customer base and all the potential consumers who patronize your business. Wouldn't the quality of the SUBWAY® products appeal to those consumers?

If you would like to find out more about how the SUBWAY® chain can be added to your casino, contact:

Global Account Manager

"We are in more than 25 casinos in Las Vegas and Laughlin, Nevada. The first casino site was in 1994. With 44,000+ stores worldwide, the SUBWAY® chain is very well known and appeals to a large audience due to rapid worldwide expansion. By speaking with casino operators, I know one of the most important factors they look for is great customer service. They want to make sure their customers are taken care of with utmost service. In addition, they are inundated with their casino operations and want to make sure their operators are seasoned in the brand to be able to provide this excellent service.

Tourists will more often choose a franchised brand that they know versus a mom and pop operation. Most of the locations that I have acquired in my 33 years of SUBWAY® experience are due to seasoned relationships. I first opened my SUBWAY® franchise in Las Vegas in 1983. The casino locations are on the Las Vegas Strip, Downtown Las Vegas and neighborhood casinos."

SUBWAY® — FRESH SOLUTIONS FOR YOUR CASINO.

There's something comforting about a Subway restaurant in a casino. There's comfort in knowing there's a healthy eating option in the casino. There's comfort in knowing you can get a sandwich that tastes good made exactly the way you want it. And there's comfort in knowing there's an affordable food option right on property.

Casinos used to be places where you could dine like royalty without breaking the bank. That's no longer the case. Dinner buffets that used to be $10 are now $40. Good lunch buffets start around $25. And restaurants? They're at least as expensive as the buffet. And frequently more so.

So what's a health-conscious, value-conscious eater supposed to do in a casino? Subway. The proof is in the lines of customers at Subway locations already in casinos. From Foxwoods in Connecticut to the Gold Coast in Las Vegas, people line up to buy Subway's food throughout the day.

And unlike the restaurants that sit empty late into the night, Subway is open for business – and generating revenue.

Subway franchise location at Diamond Jo Worth Casino in Northwood, Iowa.

Like its Foxwoods counterpart, the Subway at the Gold Coast in Las Vegas is open until 2 a.m. on Saturdays, serving customers with the late-night munchies. And it's open until midnight the rest of the week. And in Slots of Fun in Las Vegas, Subway has a 24-hour operation.

Value and convenience are not the only factors driving customers to Subway. Today's casino customers, more than ever before, are health conscious. A 2014 Harris Poll found 69% of Americans cited fat content as an important factor in making food decision. Sugar content was important for 68% of Americans, while calories were important for 66% of Americans.

About two-thirds of American customers are consciously selecting healthy food options. That plays into Subway's strengths. Nutritious food is a signature component of Subway's menu.

Subway also has twelve Subway Fresh Fit 6-inch sandwiches that are low in fat, cholesterol and saturated fat, four subs that have fewer than 300 calories, seven subs that have fewer than 350 calories, and 14 subs with fewer than 500 calories.

They also have fresh avocado on the menu. Yum.

Subway has also added fiber and whole grain to its bread. And the American Heart Association has certified 20 Subway meals with its Heart-Check mark. Subway is the only restaurant certified as heart friendly by the American Heart Association.

Nutritious food. Tasty food. Good value. Consistency. That's what customers are looking for. And it's a winning bet at any casino.

If you'd like to bring Subway to your casino, please contact Liz Smethurst: Smethurst_L@subway.com

Gaming Industry Vendor Licensing

Excerpted from Casino City's GamingRegulation.com website

The gaming industry has experienced unprecedented growth and expansion throughout the world. An essential foundation of the success that has led to such enormous growth has been the use of sound legal and regulatory structures. The robust regulatory systems adopted in various jurisdictions have given the public confidence in the gaming industry, helping ensure fair play for the ultimate consumer and protecting the industry from infiltration (direct or indirect) by cheaters, money launderers or other criminal enterprises. Although each jurisdiction adopts its own laws, rules, regulations and procedures, there are numerous models for regulation followed throughout the world. As such, there are many common themes and practices that anyone interested in conducting business in the industry should be aware of.

The value of a gaming license or exemption should never be overlooked by those seeking to do business in this complex but navigable industry.

Without a top-down corporate appreciation for compliance, a company's product development success may be short lived, as it only takes one mistake to derail a company from its gaming-related business efforts.

It is important to understand that the foundation of all gaming regulatory systems is an established and ongoing regulatory expectation of "compliance."

If an entity intends to be involved in the gaming industry as an operator, investor, lender, employee, supplier or vendor to a casino or other gaming venue, most gaming regulatory structures require knowledge of and compliance with the jurisdiction's particular rules and interpretations of rules.

Although there are many seemingly universal regulatory concepts that most jurisdictions follow, it is important to understand that dialogue and communication with regulators are critical to success. The basic tenet of compliance is the regulators' expectation that regulated parties will police themselves, voluntarily comply, and self-report any noncompliance or other matters or situations that the regulators might deem relevant.

Most gaming regulatory systems have three major components: (1) licensing, (2) audit and (3) enforcement. The goal of licensing is to ensure that only qualified, suitable companies and individuals are involved in the regulated aspects of the industry.

The licensing process is used to keep criminal elements out and to ensure that the licensed parties have the capability (financially, ethically and competently) to provide the role, goods or services that have been offered. This ensures fair play for casino patrons and helps accomplish the public policy objective of preventing money laundering, cheating, embezzlement and other unsavory activities.

The audit and enforcement components are somewhat intertwined. The audit process monitors and reviews compliance with the applicable laws, regulations, rules and policies of a jurisdiction. In the event of a violation, the enforcement process will come into play, with regulators enforcing applicable sanctions. These sanctions can include the loss of the privilege to work in the gaming industry in that jurisdiction, suspensions for certain lengths of time, fines, reprimands or other unique penalties developed by a jurisdiction.

Many times, if issues arise that compromise one's gaming license, it can and will have a profound negative effect throughout other jurisdictions that require reporting of such events.

Gaming regulatory bodies in various jurisdictions are all involved in licensing and regulating their casino operations. In most jurisdictions, there are also regulatory requirements and possible licensing, registration or exemption processes with respect to vendors and suppliers to casinos.

Some jurisdictions only regulate companies selling gaming equipment to casinos, while many others have requirements applicable to nongaming suppliers, as well.

The value of a gaming license goes beyond the simple authorization to provide goods or services to casino clients in a single casino gaming jurisdiction. The license also serves as confirmation to regulatory bodies both inside and outside the traditional commercial and tribal bricks-and-mortar casino industry – such as those that regulate iGaming, horse racing, dog racing, charitable gaming and state lotteries – that the company and its principal employees have successfully passed through a rigorous suitability, operations and financial review. Proper licensing provides assurance that a company operates according to high standards of integrity and compliance.

As gaming authorities are in close communication with their counterparts in other jurisdictions and other gaming industries, a strong reputation in one jurisdiction can provide a platform for future compliance efforts in other jurisdictions as a company expands into new gaming markets.

In addition, most gaming markets are also home to various gaming associations, which serve to unify and educate industry partners. Such associations are important to the gaming industry as they seek to unify the interests of operators, suppliers and regulators, respectively.

extraordinary

Professional performer, controlled conditions. Do not attempt.

Gasser chairs are proven performers, to say the least. For 70 years they have maintained a sensible symmetry between style, comfort and dependability that has never ceased to amaze. At Gasser, we don't merely perform, we dazzle.
